ABOUT THE EDITORS

Kerstin Sahlin is since 2000 Professor of Public Management in the Department of Business Studies at Uppsala University. Prior to her position at Uppsala, Kerstin Sahlin was Professor in Public Management at Stockholm University and the Director for the Stockholm Centre for Organizational Research (SCORE). Professor Sahlin received her PhD from Umeå University and has also held positions at the Stockholm School of Economics. She has been a visiting researcher at Stanford University and a number of other institutions. Kerstin Sahlin has held a number of academic leadership positions. She has been Vice president of the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences (2019–2022), Secretary General of Humanities and Social Sciences (2013–2018), and Deputy Vice-Chancellor of Uppsala University (2006–2011). Her major research interests include decision-making on complex projects, the expansion and translation of management ideas, organizational reforms of public sector, transnational regulation, and more recently university governance and collegiality. Her research is largely based in new institutional theory. She has published several edited volumes, books, and articles. She is currently Chair of the Research Program WASP-HS (The Wallenberg AI, Autonomous Systems and Software Program–Humanities and Society).

Ulla Eriksson-Zetterquist is since 2010 Professor in Organization Theory and Management at the Gothenburg Research Institute (GRI), and at the Department for Business Administration, School of Business, Economics, and Law, University of Gothenburg. She has been Visiting Scholar at SCANCOR Stanford (Spring 2010), SCANCOR Harvard (Fall 2016), and Visiting Professor at Uppsala University in 2013. Between 2012 and 2023 she served as the Director of GRI. During 2014 and 2015 she was the Chair of the Swedish Academy of Business and Management. She has been active as Associated Editor for the journal Gender, Work and Organization between the years of 2004 and 2020. Since 2017 she is heading the research program Managing Digital Transformations. Her research interests concern organizing, governance in professional organizations, diversity and inclusion, and digitalization. These themes have been explored in a variety of organizations, both in private and public sectors, for instance, in multinational corporations, the automotive industry, the public school, and the Swedish Defense Authority. She has published in the field of organization theory and management studies, including journal articles, research monographs, and textbooks. Her latest book is edited with Magnus Hansson and Fredrik Nilsson (2020): Theories and Perspectives in Swedish Business Administration Studies.

FOREWORD

Research in the Sociology of Organizations (RSO) publishes cutting edge empirical research and theoretical papers that seek to enhance our understanding of organizations and organizing as pervasive and fundamental aspects of society and economy. We seek provocative papers that push the frontiers of current conversations that help to revive old ones, or that incubate and develop new perspectives. Given its successes in this regard, RSO has become an impactful and indispensable fount of knowledge for scholars interested in organizational phenomena and theories. RSO is indexed and ranks highly in Scopus/SCImago as well as in the Academic Journal Guide published by the Chartered Association of Business Schools.

As one of the most vibrant areas in the social sciences, the sociology of organizations engages a plurality of empirical and theoretical approaches to enhance our understanding of the varied imperatives and challenges that these organizations and their organizers face. Of course, there is a diversity of formal and informal organizations—from for-profit entities to non-profits, state and public agencies, social enterprises, communal forms of organizing, non-governmental associations, trade associations, publicly traded, family owned and managed, private firms – the list goes on! Organizations, moreover, can vary dramatically in size from small entrepreneurial ventures to large multinational conglomerates to international governing bodies such as the United Nations.

Empirical topics addressed by Research in the Sociology of Organizations include: the formation, survival, and growth of organizations; collaboration and competition between organizations; the accumulation and management of resources and legitimacy; and how organizations or organizing efforts cope with a multitude of internal and external challenges and pressures. Particular interest is growing in the complexities of contemporary organizations as they cope with changing social expectations and as they seek to address societal problems related to corporate social responsibility, inequality, corruption and wrongdoing, and the challenge of new technologies. As a result, levels of analysis reach from the individual, to the organization, industry, community and field, and even the nation-state or world society. Much research is multi-level and embraces both qualitative and quantitative forms of data.

Diverse theory is employed or constructed to enhance our understanding of these topics. While anchored in the discipline of sociology and the field of management, Research in the Sociology of Organizations also welcomes theoretical engagement that draws on other disciplinary conversations – such as those in political science or economics, as well as work from diverse philosophical traditions. RSO scholarship has helped push forward a plethora theoretical conversations on institutions and institutional change, networks, practice, culture, power, inequality, social movements, categories, routines, organization design and change, configurational dynamics, and many other topics.

Each volume of Research in the Sociology of Organizations tends to be thematically focused on a particular empirical phenomenon (e.g., creative industries, multinational corporations, entrepreneurship) or theoretical conversation (e.g., institutional logics, actors and agency, microfoundations). The series publishes papers by junior as well as leading international scholars, and embraces diversity on all dimensions. If you are a scholar interested in organizations or organizing, I hope you find Research in the Sociology of Organizations to be an invaluable resource as you develop your work.
