

A Socio-Legal History of the Laws of War

EMERALD ADVANCES IN HISTORICAL CRIMINOLOGY

Series Editors: David Churchill and Christopher W. Mullins

This series embraces a broad, pluralistic understanding of “the historical” and its potential applications to criminology. Providing an inclusive platform for a range of approaches which, in various ways, seek to orient criminological enquiry to history or to the dynamics of historical time, the series also offers a platform both for conventional studies in the history of crime and criminal justice, but also for innovative and experimental work which extends the conceptual, theoretical, methodological, and topical range of historical criminology. In this way, the series encourages historical scholarship on nontraditional topics in criminology (such as environmental harms, war, and state crime) and inventive modes of theorizing and practising historical research (including processual approaches and futures research). The series thus makes a valuable contribution to criminology irrespective of disciplinary affiliation, theoretical framing, or methodological practice.
