

INDEX

- Academia, 139–140
Academic entitlement, 44
Action Learning, Action Research and Process Management (ALARPM), 175–176
Action research, 169, 174–175
Activity
 drawing networked relational model of, 53–55 system, 49, 54–55, 72
Activity systems model (ASM), 46
Alchemy (Chopra’s concept), 160
Amalgams of experience, 142–145
 faculty member example, 143–145
 graduate student example, 142–143
American Association of Teaching and Curriculum (AATC), 141
American Federation of Teachers (AFT), 189
Apology, The, 255
Arts-based inquiry, 218–219
Assemblages, 49
Australia, referenda in, 256
Authoritarian, 69–70 discourse, 241–242
 style, 71
 teacher’s style, 71–72
Authoritative discourse, 20–21, 68, 74 authority vs. authoritarian, 69–70 dialogue, authority and teachers’ styles, 71–72 dialogue vs. monologue, 70–71
 teacher and student power relations, 72–73
‘Authoritative teachers’ style, 72
Authority, 69–72
Autoethnographic practices, 205
Autoethnography, 169, 201–203
Awareness, reflection of, 211–212
#BackonTrack programme, 100
Bakhtin’s notion of dialogism, storying and ‘restorying’ framed by, 234–235
Banking Education, 64–65, 71
Basic Law of the Non-Higher Education System, 127–128
Best-loved self, 138–139, 168–170, 272, 276
 concept, 2–3, 6
 Yin–Yang of excessive teacher/faculty entitlement and, 11–12
Bodily memory, 198–199
Bourdieu’s social theory of reproduction, 233
Bracketing, 198–199
Bridling, 198–199
 excessive teacher entitlement, 204–205
Broadening, 141
Burrowing, 141

Cable News Network (CNN), 188
Cami Maths (Software), 82
Care ethics, 217, 226
Catholic education, 128
Change Laboratories, 106 protocols, 108 session, 108–109
Chinese basic education system, 124
Classroom discourse, uncovering teacher authority in, 21
Community of practice, 77
Competition, 5–6
Computer software, 94
Computer-based mathematics lessons, 91–93
Concept activity, 74–76

- Conceptual complexification, 76
 Conceptual inquiry, 77
 Conceptual investigation approach, 76–77
 Confucianism, 126
 Consciousness, 12–13
 Conservative viewpoints, 192
 Continual reflect journaling technique, 198–199
 Continuity, 200–201
 Contradictions, 33, 83–84
 Convoluted circumstances, 143
 Core ideas, synthesizing, 13
 COVID-19, 184
 Critical theory, 169–170
 Cultural inquiry approach, 77
 Cultural mediation, 75
 Cultural-Historical Activity Theory (CHAT), 8, 11, 22–23, 37–38, 44–45, 54, 65, 78–79, 83–84, 102–104, 108, 121, 276 activity system, 50–51, 53 CHAT-informed educational research, 104 contextualization within, 45–48 perspective, 118–119
 principles, 112
 Cultural–historical theory, 33
 Culturally sustaining pedagogy, 157
 Currere, 216–219
 Curriculum theory-based methodology, 216–217

 Darlinghurst Gaol, 250
 Darlinghurst Prison, 250
 Decision-making processes, 66–67
 Defensive pedagogy, 95–96
 analytical framework, 87–88
 computer-based mathematics lessons, 91–93
 context, 86–87
 equivalent fractions, 89–90
 face-to-face lessons, 89
 findings, 89, 96, 109, 113
 instructional rules, 90–91
 method, data sources and analysis, 108–109
 methodology, 86–88
 object in computer-based lesson, 93–96
 purposes, 102–103
 research participants, 86
 theoretical framework, 82, 86, 103, 108
 Deficit teacher, 35–36
 Deficit view of students, 29–30
 Dehumanization, excessive entitlement as, 272
 Dialectical process, 70
 Dialogic engagement, conversation, 151–164
 Dialogic interaction, 69
 Dialogic research, 150
 Dialogical approach, 242
 Dialogical relationship, 241–242
 Dialogical science education (see also Traditional education), 68–74 authority vs. authoritarian, 69–70
 dialogue, authority and teachers' styles, 71–72
 dialogue vs. monologue, 70–71
 teacher and student power relations, 72–73
 Dialogical–authoritative educational framework, 74
 Dialogic–authoritative process, 77
 Dialogism, storying and 'restorying' framed by Bakhtin's notion of, 234–235
 Dialogue, 70–72
 Dichotomies, 68
 Digital technologies, 100–101
 Dilemmas, importance of managing, 273
 Dilemmatic spaces, 120–121
 excessive teacher entitlement, 119–120
 Lee's narrative account, 124–126
 narrative inquiry as research method, 122–124

- Ping's narrative account, 126–127
 (re-) telling and (r-) living in stories of teachers, 124–129 theoretical underpinnings, 119–122
 transformative agency, 121–122
 Wang's narrative account, 127–129
- Direct teaching, 91
- Discourse, 241–242
- District Institute of Education and Training (DIET), 24–25
- Doctoral School (DS), 240
- Doctoral students, excessive faculty entitlement affecting,
 236–237
- Doctoral supervision Bourdieu's social theory of reproduction, 233 bringing my personal supervisory experiences to surface, 239
 epistemic positioning, 235–236
 excessive entitlement, 232–233 first-time oversight of excessive entitlement challenges, 239 further questioning of my excessively entitled approach to supervision, 239–242
 investigating excessive entitlement
 in French 'social game' of supervision, 236–238
 issues of positionality and research questions, 235–236 learning from reflection on experience, 243–244
 methodological framework, 234–235
 narrative inquiry, 234 participants, data sources and analysis, 235
 self-study in researcher's maturation process, 244–245
 self-study research, 234 storying and 'restorying' framed by Bakhtin's notion of dialogism, 234–235 supervision as ongoing learning process, 242–244
 theoretical framework, 232–233
- Double stimulation experiments, 106
 as method of intervention, 26–27 as unit of analysis, 27
- Drawing-based network model, 52
- Dropout, need for relational understanding of problem of, 237–238
- Due, 140
- Duoethnography, 150–151, 162
- Dysfunctions in supervision, 237–238
- Earned entitlement, 47–48
- Economic rationalism, 169–170
- Education, 100, 157–158, 252–253
- Educational ethics, 217–218, 226
- Educational leaders, 185–186
- Educational process, 20–21
- Educational theory (see also Living-educational-theories (LET)), 171
- Educational transformation, 102
- Educators, 226
 and humanity, 273–274
- Elimination process, 261
- Emancipatory dialogic activity, 70–71
- Empowered entitlement, 4, 273 development, 6–7 from excessive entitlement to, 33–34
- 'Energy Paradigm', The, 175–176
- English as a Foreign Language (EFL), 102
- English as Second Language (ESL), 2, 18–19
- Entitlement concept, 43–44, 119, 140
- Epideictic discourse, 73–74
- Epideictic oratory, 73–74
- Epideictic-Esperantist discourse, The,
 74
- Epistemic positioning, 235–236
- Equivalent fractions, 89–90
- Esperantist-Epideictic discourse, 74
- Ethics, 156, 226–227
- Evaluation, 161

- Excessive entitlement, 2, 18, 44–45,
48, 101–102, 138, 168–169,
171, 216, 219, 225–226,
232–233, 242–243, 253, 273
amalgams of experience, 142–145
back to my roots, 263–264 background literature, 138–140
best-loved self, 139
cultural-historical view of, 4–5 as dehumanization, 272
due, 140
excessive faculty entitlement affecting doctoral students, 236–237
experience, 139
findings and analysis, 255–263 first-time oversight of, 239
in French ‘social game’ of supervision, 236–238
higher education contexts, 139–140
interpretive transition, 145 mainstream view of, 4 method and context, 254–255 narrative inquiry research method, 140–141 need for relational understanding of problem of dropout, 237–238 positionality, 141–142
purposes, 252
supervisory relationship, 238
the voice, 258–263
theoretical framework, 253–254
Excessive faculty entitlement affecting doctoral students, 236–237
Excessive teacher entitlement, 2, 64,
78–79, 84, 86, 130, 209, 217
analytical framework, 87–88 background and questions for study, 23–25
bridling to understand, 204–205 computer-based mathematics lessons, 91–93
concept, 18–19
conquering excessive entitlement to develop beneficial aspect of teacher authority, 21–22
context, 86–87
continuing learning through emergent problem situation, 32–33
developing professional and transformative activist stance, 32 double stimulation as method of intervention, 26–27 double stimulation as unit of analysis, 27
enriching notion of, 2–4 equivalent fractions, 89–90
face-to-face lessons, 89
findings, 27, 33, 89, 96
government school in India, 23–24
implications for teacher education, 35–36
inconsistency between teacher
espousal and practice, 19–22
instructional rules, 90–91
methodology, 86–88
notion of excessive entitlement, 36–37
object in computer-based lesson, 93–96
participants, sources of data and analysis, 25–27
perspective framing study, 22–23 primary contradiction, 28–29 problem situation, 24–25 reflecting on process, 33–34 reflections of, 206–211
research participants, 86
resistance to excessive entitlement, 34–35
secondary contradiction, 29–31
signposting contributions of study, 38 space of becoming, 38 teacher as researcher, 23 teacher authority and links to, 20–21

- tertiary contradictions, 31–32
- theoretical framework, 82–86
- uncovering teacher authority in classroom discourse, 21
- Excessive teacher/faculty entitlement, 8, 275
 - excessive entitlement as teacher resistance to change, 5–6
 - healing touch to, 5–7
 - humanizing pedagogy with resistance for change, 6–7
 - Yin–Yang of, 11–12
- Expansive learning, 26–27
- Experience
 - amalgams of, 142–145
 - learning from reflection on, 243–244
 - theory of, 200–201
- Facebook, 187
- Faculty member example, 143–145
- Fictionalization, 141
- Field, 233
- FIFA Women’s World Cup, 254
- Formative initiative, emergence of, 24–25
- Fourth Industrial Revolution (4IR), 100
- Freedom movement, 153
- French ‘social game’ of supervision, investigating excessive entitlement in, 236–238
- Google Classroom, 110
- Government school in India, 23–24
- Graduate student example, 142–143
- Guiltless recognition, 169–171
- Habitus, 233
- High school, 219
- Higher education contexts, 139–140
- Historical analysis, 33
- Holocaust and inhumane acts, 271–272
- Human ideological becoming process, 38
- Humanity, educators and, 273–274
- Humanizing pedagogy with resistance for change, 6–7
- “Introgenesis”, 217
- Imaginative artifact, 52
- Inclusion, 252
- India, Government school in, 23–24
- Indirect costs (IDC), 139–140
- Indulgent teachers, 72
- Inflammatory language, 191
- Informal curriculum, 225
- Information and communication technologies (ICTs), 82
- Inhumane acts, holocaust and, 271–272
- Instagram, 187
- Institutional Framework of Teaching Staff in Non-Higher Education Private Schools, 127–128
- Instructional rules, 88, 90–91
- Instrumental dialogue, 70
- Intentionality, 202
- Interaction, 200
- Internally persuasive discourse, 20–21
- International Conference on Transformative Education Research and Sustainable Development, 176
- International Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS), 261
- International Study Association on Teachers and Teaching (ISATT), 141
- Interpretive transition, 145
- Intervention, double stimulation as method of, 26–27
- Invisible college, emergence of, 2–4
- Inward-looking process, 22
- Learning
 - through emergent problem situation, 32–33
 - by expanding concept, 77
 - loss of, 191–192

- from reflection on experience, 243–244
- Lee's narrative account, 124–126
- Liberal views, 192
- Lived body, 198–199
- Living contradictions, dealing with, 172–173
- Living Educational Theory Research
 - approach, 169, 173–175, 177–178
- Living Educational Theory
 - Researcher, 174–175
- Living-educational-theories (LET), 174, 180
 - born into excessive entitlement, 168–169
 - dealing with my living contradictions, 172–173
 - findings, 176–178
 - methodology and methods, 173–176
 - perspective, 169–170
 - professional excessive entitlement, 171–172
 - reflecting on vulnerabilities, 178–179
- Master Maths (Software), 82
- Mathematics, 82, 85–86
- Media literature review, 187–188
- Mediation, 76, 82–83
- Mediational artefacts, 106
- Mis-educative, 201
- Mobile dictionaries, 105–106
- Monological-authoritarian teacher–student interaction, 73–74
- Monologue, 70–71
- Moral ethics, 217
- Narrative analysis, 129
- Narrative inquiry, 234, 253
 - as research method, 122, 124, 140–141
- Narrative Research, 175
- National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAES), 191
- National Education Association (NEA), 189
- National Party, The, 255
- National Public Radio (NPR), 188
- Networked relational model, 50, 52–53, 57
 - applying, 55–59
 - drawing networked relational model of activity, 53–55
 - excessive entitlement, 45–48
 - excessive entitlement as performative networked relational model, 48–50
 - of learning, 51
 - method, 53–55
- New South Wales Police (NSW Police), 250
- Nonpersonhood, 184
- Null curriculum, 216–217
- Online programs, 187
- Ontological dialogue, 70
- Pandemic, 184
- Participatory formative interventions, 106
- Pedagogy dehumanization, 5–6
- Peer review as self-reflexive tool, 7–8
- Performative networked relational model, excessive entitlement as, 48–50
- Permissive style, 71
- Permissive teachers, 72
- Personal persuasion, 241–242
- Personal supervisory experiences to surface, 239
- Phenomenological Research, 175
- Phenomenology, 169, 201–202, 205
- Photo voice assignment, 155–156
- Ping's narrative account, 126–127
- Political correctness, 254
- Politicians, 224
- Polyvocal style, 150–151
- Positionality, 141–142
 - issues of, 235–236
- Postpandemic media reports, 188

- Power, 254
- Practitioner-researcher, 173–174
- Practitioners, 199–200
- Primacy of teachers and professors, 272–273
- Primary contradiction, 28–29
- Principal investigator (PI), 139–140
- Professional activist stance, 32
- Professional development, 168
- Professional ethics, 218, 227
- Professional excessive entitlement, 171–172
- Professional living, 118–119
- Professionalism ethics, 226
- Professors, primacy of teachers and, 272–273
- Progress in International Reading Literacy Study (PIRLS), 100
- Quality education system, 100–101
- (R-) living in stories of teachers, 124–129
- (Re-) telling in stories of teachers, 124–129
- Reconceptualization process, 162
- Referenda in Australia, 256
- Referendum, 256
- Reflections
of excessive teacher entitlement, 206–211
theory of, 200–201
- Reinforcement pedagogy, 91
- Reproduction, Bourdieu's social theory of, 233
- Research, 73
issues of research questions, 235–236 methodologies, 235–236
narrative inquiry as research method, 122–124
- Researcher's maturation process, self-study in, 244–245
- Resistance, 6
to excessive entitlement, 34–35
- Resource persons (RPs), 25
- Restorying framed by Bakhtin's notion of dialogism, 234–235
- Returned and Services League (RSL), 260–261
- ROTC program, 208
- Saturday group, The, 25–26
- School encapsulation, 74, 76–77
- Science, technology and society approach (STS approach), 66
- Science education, 68
teachers' commitment to absolute truth in, 65–68
- Science teachers' power, teachers' style and epistemological dimension of, 73–74
- Science-Technology-Engineering-Mathematics (STEM), 139–140, 162
- Scientific Esperantism, 73
- Scientific inquiry, 77
- Scientific instrumentalism, 66
- Scientific-cultural inquiry (see also Narrative inquiry), 74–77
concept activity, 74–76
mediation and conceptual complexification, 76 towards overcoming school encapsulation, 76–77
- Secondary contradiction, 29–31
- Self-realisation, 245
- Self-reflexivity, 245
- Self-righteousness, 153
- Self-study genre, 253
research, 175, 234
in researcher's maturation process, 244–245
- Situated learning, 26–27
- Siyazama Primary School, 87
- Social activity, 72
- Social justice ethics, 217, 226–227
- Social media platforms, 187

- Societal narratives of teachers
 findings, 188–192
 loss of learning, 191–192
 method, data sources, and analysis, 187–188
 missing voices of teachers, 188–190 objectives/purposes, 185 perspectives/theoretical framework, 185–187
 teacher shortage, 190–191
- Societal reidentification, 169–171
- Sociomaterial approach, 48, 50–51
- South Africa, 82
- Spatial sociology, 120–121
- Standardised materials, 105–106
- Stories, 203
- Storying framed by Bakhtin's notion of dialogism, 234–235
- Student testing, 191
- Supervision
 investigating excessive entitlement
 in French 'social game' of, 236–238
 as ongoing learning process, 242–244
- Supervisory relationship, 238
- Systemic excessive entitlement, 150
- Systems view, 59
- Teacher education implications for, 35–36 insights for, 36–37
 programs, 278
- Teachers, 32, 186
 agency, 102
 authority and links to excessive teacher entitlement, 20–21 commitment to absolute truth in science education, 65–68
 conquering excessive entitlement to develop beneficial aspect of teacher authority, 21–22
 entitlement, 209
 ideological becoming, 32
 inconsistency between teacher
 espousal and practice, 19–22
 missing teachers voices, 188–190 narratives, 204
 nonpersonhood, 185
 primacy of professors and, 272–273
 as researcher, 23
 resistance, 19
 (re-) telling and (r-) living in stories of, 124–129
 shortage, 190–191
 and student power relations, 72–73 style and epistemological dimension of science teachers' power, 73–74
 styles, 71–72
 uncovering teacher authority in classroom discourse, 21
- Teaching, 18
- Teaching–learning process, 74–75
- Tertiary contradictions, 31–32
- Theoretical endeavour, 65
- Traditional education
 Currere, 218–219
 educational ethics, 217–218
 ethics, 226–227
 excessive entitlement, 225–226
 findings, 220–225
 high school, 219
- Transformative activist stance, 22, 32
- Transformative agency, 4, 119, 121–122
- Transformative agentive side up, 23
- Transformative potentials, 102–103
- 'Transformative process of teachers'
 ideological becoming, 34
- Translanguaging, 159
- Trends in International Mathematics and Science Study
 (TIMSS), 82, 100
- Trinomial, 75
- Troubling excessive entitlement
 autoethnography, 202–203

- bridling to understand excessive teacher entitlement, 204–205
- literature review, 200–205
- methodology and more questions, 205
- narrative, 206, 208–211
- purpose and research questions, 199–200
- reflection, 198–199
- reflection of awareness, 211–212
- reflections of excessive teacher entitlement, 206–211
- researching lived experiences, 201–202
- theory of experience and reflection, 200–201
- United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), 261
- United States, 185
- Universal education, embodiment of, 23–24
- Universities, 139–140
- University Academic, 172
- Value-seeking phenomena, 55
- Values of human flourishing, 168–172
- Visual representations, 57
- Visually accessible networked relational model, 57–58
- Voice, The, 255, 258, 263
 - recommendations, 257
- Vygotsky's triangular model, 9
- Wang's narrative account, 127–129
- Western Cape Education Department (WCED), 100
- Yin–Yang of excessive teacher/faculty entitlement and Best Loved Self, 11–12
- Yrjö Engeström's activity systems model, 44–45
- Zone of proximal development (ZPD), 82–83
- Zoom, 151